

The logo consists of the text "PR HERE" in a bold, serif font, centered within a rectangular box with a light brown background and a thin horizontal line below the text.

Bubbles the Little Pig – Here’s Something to Squeal About Potbellied Pig Provides with Inspiration for Children’s Book

California Books 08/05/2008

Bubbles the family pot bellied pig became more than just a pet to her owners. Instead, Bubbles became the inspiration for Jane Ferguson’s first children’s book entitled “Bubbles the Little Pig” which is available nationally and abroad. The book can be found on Amazon, Borders, Barnes and Noble Tower Books, Hot Book Sale and through the publisher “PublishAmerica.”

Bubbles was adopted by Ferguson and her husband when she was 11 months old from a rescue shelter in Action, California called “Pig Harmony.” It all began with a visit to the State Fair where they saw new born baby piglets for the first time. The couple researched owning a pig and realized that of course they couldn’t get a farm pig but a small pot bellied pig could be a definite option. The pot bellied pig has her own room, which is pink and a princess blanket adorned with crowns in the Ferguson home where she sleeps.

Although fiction, the book is based on real people and events, “Bubbles the Little Pig” tells the tale of Bubble outdoor adventure which begins one day when the gardener leaves the big red gate to the backyard open. Bubbles encounters other animals during her adventure who help her find her way back home.

In a feature on Bubbles the Little Pig that appeared in the local Press Tribune, Ferguson stated that she never expected to write a book. Bubbles was my inspiration. People are usually very curious about Bubbles, especially children. “I sat down one day and started writing a story and it just flowed.”

Bubbles is a constant source of unintentional entertainment and it would be no wonder if Ferguson decided write another story with Bubbles as the star character once again.

Contact details

Contact person: J.M. Ferguson

Company name: NA

Company url: NA

Email: jmf1436@hotmail.com

Phone: 9167705406